What audiences say

"Brigitte held the delegates in the palm of her hand telling her story of resilience in conquering Mt Everest with humility and humour. There is no doubt, in my mind the depth of Brigitte's strength and quiet achievement is to be admired and mirrored. Thank you for closing our 2015 National Conference on an inspiring note"

Fiona Keough, Austcontact Chief Executive Officer

"Brigitte Muir addressed an assembly (Years 5 to 12) and without doubt it was one of the most enjoyable and inspirational addresses we have had. She is a very lively and entertaining speaker and her message of 'live your dreams don't dream your life' struck a strong chord in our students.

Suzy Chandler, Principal, Fintona Girls School

"Your life experiences as a woman in male-dominated environment had a positive impact on our women workforce, often presented with challenges of being a minority group in the non-traditional occupations. Your talk went well with our theme by sending a message to women on how to realize their potential, reach their goals and stop being afraid to climb the highest peaks!"

In a few Words

From caving in high school to scaling the world's highest peaks, Brigitte's life has been one of pushing her limits, and inspiring others. She was a member of nine expeditions to 8000m high peaks, climbed seven continents and crossed Australian and Antarctic deserts.

In recent years, she has given her heart towards positive change in her beloved Eastern Nepal, creating inspirational documentaries and leading fundraising trips for capacity building programs such
